Sometimes Fund Investors Win by Not Losing

Kevin Baker

NEW YORK (TheStreet) — The equity mutual fund that received the highest initial rating in a monthly review carries the motto "winning by not losing," which refers to the so-called wisdom of "buy and hold" investing as a myth.

Stadion Managed Portfolio Fund, which was awarded a grade of A-plus from TheStreet.com Ratings, holds exchange traded funds and employs a quantitative technical model that considers market factors including advance/decline indicators, new highs versus new lows, relative strength among asset classes and changes in interest rates to determine how much or how little exposure to equities is appropriate. During the bear market that began a little more than a year ago, and gave way to a bull market, nearly all investment categories posted massive declines, as there was no escape from the financial crisis.

Stadion Managed Portfolio Fund was one of two stock mutual funds that opened for business in September of 2006 and received our highest rating level of "excellent." In all, TheStreet.com Ratings initiated coverage of 14 open-end mutual funds that accrued a track record of three years of risk and performance data by the end of September.
